

ECE5424 Homework Assignment #4

The probability distribution of the sum/average of three random variables is the linear convolution of the individual probability distributions of these three random variables.

Regardless of the shape of the individual distributions, please perform simply a 'chain' of linear convolutions to illustrate the Gaussianity claim made by the central limit theorem.